

Institutional Values and Best Practices

One of the major aspects of teaching-learning process of the department is based on the social-philosophy of human values that develops a critical attitude, thought and behavior among the students. The department inculcates the values of self-desire life among the students through various field visit programmes, inter-acting the people from down-trodden society, and developing the attitude among the students towards the protection of environment.